

Naomi Burrell

Naomi Burrell, also known as Miss Be-Inspired, is a published journalist, author and radio personality on The Be Inspired Radio Show on beexposedradio.com. In addition, she is a highly sought after event host and master of ceremony. In fact, she was named the official Master of Ceremony for the highly recognized Preakness Hat Competition at the Annual Flower Mart Festival in Downtown Baltimore. Naomi has also had the pleasure of interviewing several major celebrities including all of the members of the world renowned R&B Soul Group, New Edition and has covered major events like the Annual Congressional Black Caucus Legislative Conference.

Although she has enjoyed much success in her career in media and publication, her most honorable role is that of wife and mother. She is a wife of 10 years and a mother of two lovely children. She is also an ordained Elder and a 16 year civil servant of the Federal Government. She has an AA degree in Liberal Arts and a Bachelor of Science degree in Business/Management. She attributes all of her success to her Faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and gives all her praise to her heavenly Father for all of her many blessings.

"My greatest joy is to inspire others to LIVE exceedingly ABOVE the status quo!" ~
Love, Miss Be-Inspired
